Philippe D. Clarinval, General Manager of Carlton Hotel St. Moritz

Philippe Clarinval has been the General Manager of the Carlton Hotel St. Moritz since September 2017. His warm nature makes him popular with staff and guests in the Tschuggen Hotel Group five-star hotel in the Engadine. Professionals from Switzerland are equally impressed with his qualities. According to Karl Wild (Hotelrating Schweiz 2018/19), the hotel with 60 suites that is only open in winter has “gathered great momentum” with Philippe Clarinval.

“Doing justice to the high standards of guests at the Carlton is a challenge that inspires me and my amazing team to strive for the highest level of performance every day”, explains Philippe Clarinval.

Originally, the 44-year-old who was born in Central Switzerland was going to become a dentist. However, he then studied hotel management and worked in Brussels and London. Philippe Clarinval also has an MBA qualification in International Hospitality and Service Industries Management from the Glion Institute of Higher Education. He is currently pursuing a Doctorate in Business Administration at the University of Liverpool.

Before Philippe Clarinval joined the Tschuggen Hotel Group, he worked in renowned top hotels in Europe, the USA, and Asia. He discovered his passion for the Swiss mountains in his almost seven years as Managing Director of The Omnia Mountain Lodge luxury hotel in Zermatt, where he had a significant influence.
